Facility 1, Stephens County Hospital - Part V, Line 3e

On June 19, 2019, a session was held with the Joint CHNA Partners and their community advisors to identify and prioritize the significant health needs for each Partner's community. The Partners and their advisors utilized a comprehensive method of considering all available relevant data, including community input. The meeting included: an overview of the CHNA process for the northeast Georgia region; the methodology for determining the top health needs; the selection and prioritization of significant health needs for each Partner community; and identification of common priorities across the communities of northeast Georgia.

Participants included the executive sponsor and project sponsor from each of the CHNA Partners. In addition, each Partner invited community advisors to the prioritization session. Community advisors were individuals with a deep knowledge of each Partner's community and were involved/invested in community development. Participants were organized into working groups for each CHNA Partner's community. A list of the participants and their community working groups is included in Appendix E of the CHNA.

Prioritization of the health needs took place in two steps. In the first step, participants reviewed the CHNA findings and the Health Needs Matrix for each community and agreed that the needs in the upper right quadrant of the matrix, those identified as high data/high qualitative, were significant. The work groups then reviewed the other quadrants of the matrix where either the quantitative data or qualitative input indicated a need (upper left and lower right quadrants respectively). Leveraging the professional experience and community knowledge of their group via discussion, each group determined if any needs from the other quadrants were considered significant due to their potential or actual impact on the community.

In the second step, participants ranked the significant health needs on a set of prioritization criteria chosen by the CHNA Partners:

1) Magnitude: The number of people affected actually or potentially by the need and/or the magnitude of the need compared to other needs in the community.

2) Alignment: Alignment with mission, vision, and values of each organization.

3) Consequences: Extent of disability, premature death, social, economic or other burdens to the community.

4) Root Cause: The issue is a root cause of other problems, thereby possibly affecting multiple issues.

The members of the Stephens County Hospital prioritization work group recommended the following significant health needs be addressed in the Implementation strategy report -

- 1) Substance Abuse
- 2) Access to Care - Primary Care and Preventable Hospitalization
- 3) Mental Health
- 4) Maternal and Child Health

To identify the health needs of the community, the CHNA Partners established a comprehensive method of accounting for all available relevant data, including community input. The basis of identification of community health needs was the weight of qualitative and quantitative data obtained when assessing the community. Surveyors conducted interviews and focus groups with individuals representing public health, community leaders/groups, public organizations, and other providers. In some communities, supplementary qualitative data was included. In addition, quantitative data collected from several public sources was benchmarked against a state value to indicate the level of need.

Public health indicators were used to assess community health needs from a quantitative data perspective. This included collection of 129 data elements grouped into 11 categories and evaluated for the counties where data was available. A benchmark analysis was conducted to determine the public health indicators that demonstrated a community health need from a quantitative perspective. Benchmark health indicators included (when available): overall U.S. values and state of Georgia values.

Once the community benchmark was set to the state value, it was determined which indicators for the community did not meet the state benchmarks. This created a subset of indicators for further analysis. A need differential analysis was conducted to understand the relative severity of need for these indicators. The need differential established a standardized way to evaluate the degree each indicator differed from its benchmark. Health community indicators with need differentials above the 50th percentile were ordered by severity; the highest ranked indicators were the top health needs from a quantitative perspective. The outcomes of the quantitative data analysis were compared to the qualitative data findings.

In addition to analyzing quantitative data, the facilitator collected qualitative data via a variety of sources to gather the input of persons representing the broad interests of the communities served throughout the region. Input from over 500 people was included in the assessment via several different approaches. For the community served by Stephens County Hospital, one (1) focus group session with nine (9) participants and four (4) interviews were conducted March through April 2019. A list of the organizations providing input can be found in Appendix B of the CHNA. Summary findings from the focus groups and interviews can be found in Appendix C of the document.
